

One of the largest wading birds, the adult great blue heron, stands three to four feet tall. It uses its sharp, pointed beak to spear fish in shallow water.

